Partitioning of Old Russian Empire Creates Comic Opera States

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Comic-opera states have sprung up along the Baltic shores, the result of the partitioning of the old Russian Empire, according to a special correspondent of the London Observer.

Each of the three baby nations—Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania—is swelling with national pride. Having gained recognition from several big powers they are, putting on all the airs of big nations, much after the manner of some Central American republic.

All three are spending large sums of money developing "national" operas, because France supports one. Jeweler designers have been called in to design decorations for various military orders suddenly springing up.

Barely a dozen trains are operated daily in the three states, over a few hundred miles of track. Yet each of the new-born nations has its "Railway Minister," with scores of subordinates. All three have cabinets modeled along the lines of those administering the affairs of the biggest European power, with hosts of functionaries.

Every other person traveling the railways is a "diplomat." Even the "White Russian" Government, representing Russian refugees scattered all over Europe, has its staff of diplomats, press bureaus and employees of all sorts. Their expenses are paid by contributions from wealthy adherents of the former Tsar, who escaped from the Bolsheviks, and by the issue of innumerable varieties of postage stamps. None of these stamps would carry a letter or postcard a mile in any country in the world, but they are highly sought after by stamp collectors, hence the governmental revenue. One specimen alone is now quoted at five dollars apiece by London stamp collectors.

An American business man traveling the Baltic nations must suffer endless inconveniences from customs and passport officials at every frontier. Not so with the "diplomats." Equipped with papers from the Lithuanian, Latvian, Estonian, or White Russian Government, they pass customs officials without any questions, and it is generally understood that much of the smuggling along the Baltic goes on in this manner.

NAUGHTY CHICKEN

ATLANTA.—There was commotion in a "sanctified" tent where dusky worshippers were conducting services when a chicken—a regular feather covered chicken—walked right into the middle of things. Andrew Banks, of ebony hue, reasoned that it was no place for a chicken unless it was fried, made a grab for the fowl and ran right into the fist of Robert Barnes, another negro, who claimed the chicken was his pet and averred that a Gospel tent was no fit place to "swipe" a chicken anyhow. Barnes was fined $5 and costs and the chicken restored to its owner, with a reprimand.

COUNSEL FOR ACCUSED "WHITE SOX" BALL PLAYERS DENOUNCES MAGNATES

"Send Them Back to Organized Baseball," Is Appeal in Closing Arguments of Noted Case—Club Owners
Lashed as Hypocrites in Regard to Gambling

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—An appeal to send the accused White Sox players back into organized baseball, was made today as counsel for the defense drew near to the close of their argument before Judge Hugo Friend.

Baseball magnates were scathingly denounced as "rank hypocrites" and the trial of the former White Sox players was termed an attempt to "whitewash" the American league by Attorney James C. O'Brien of the defense corps, who ended his plea this morning. As Attorney Benedict J. Short took up the argument it was predicted the case would be in the hands of the jury either late today or early tomorrow.

"This prosecution has been furnished and kept alive in a desperate effort to whitewash the American league," declared O'Brien. "Ban Johnson is behind it—it is a part and parcel of their (the magnates) scheme to inject the semblance of respectability into a decaying pastime at any cost. The same motive was responsible for the selection of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis as baseball arbiter."

"They mourn the gambling. Why, gambling keeps the game alive. The magnates are hypocrites. We are charged with fooling the public. They are masters at that art. Take the talk about the 'lively ball.' There has been a protest from the fans and now the magnates are considering taking the life out of the 'lively ball' to retain what interest there is in the game.

The defendants in this case—the players—have been called 'fallen idols of the diamond.' You men give them the chance to get back into the lineup. By your verdict give them the privilege of putting on their uniforms again and going back to their old positions on the diamond. And as they trot on the field listen to the rear of the cheering and applause from the grandstand and bleachers.

"They are here because they didn't run away. Where are Arnold Rothstein, Abie Attell, Hal Chase and the others we have heard so much about? They say the game was 'thrown.' Look at the fielding average of 'Chick' Gandil for the series. It was .988. Yet Eddie Collins, a seasoned player, had an average of but .963. And Jack Daubert, playing first for the opponents, had an average of .977. In four times at bat Gandil got two hits."

Following the appeal of Attorney Short, Assistant State's Attorney Gorman was to make the closing argument for the prosecution. It was considered likely that Judge Friend might hold a night session of court to speed the end of the sensational trial.

C. OF C. MYSTIFIED BY WEIRD APPEAL TO FIGHT S. P.

Urging the Glendale Chamber of Commerce to join in the fight for the Plaza Union station at Los Angeles, against the alleged efforts of the Southern Pacific railroad, a mysterious typewritten letter, bearing no signature, but the name "J. P. Adams" in typewriting, was read at the meeting of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce today. The letter bore no address.

It set forth that the Southern Pacific was attempting to avoid obedience to the mandate of the Railroad Commission, which ordered all the railroads with terminals in Los Angeles to establish a union terminal in the plaza, Los Angeles. The establishment of such a terminal at that point, it was declared, would be a benefit to Glendale and the towns north of Los Angeles.

While the members took exception to the receipt of a letter without signature or address, several argued that the plaza station would be a benefit to Glendale because of the wide, north-south spreading switching yard necessary to such a terminal.

It was decided that the letter be referred to the railroad committee for consideration.

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS' SUPREME COUNCIL IN SESSION

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—The thirty-ninth international convention of the supreme council of Knights of Columbus formally opened here today.

Sounding the keynote of the assemblage in his annual report, Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty denounced what he termed "professional purveyors of religious prejudices," and called upon "all good citizens of America and upon the press of the country, to help us in our aim to make America safe for Americans of all religious faiths."

Flaherty condemned particularly the circulation of a bogus oath, attributed to the Knights of Columbus, which, he declared, was printed in different localities and circulated freely to the prejudice of religious peace.

"This so-called oath of the fourth degree, Knights of Columbus, is a vile invention used by the basest sort of politicians—designed only to stir up distrust and suspicion of one class of citizens against another," he said. "At this time, tens of thousands of copies of it are being distributed indiscriminately, and so, this convention of the Knights of Columbus takes the unusual step of making public for the first time the real obligation taken by the Knights of Columbus in private ceremonial." This he announced to be as follows:

"I swear to support the Constitution of the United States. I pledge myself, as a Catholic citizen and Knight of Columbus, to enlighten myself fully upon my duties as a citizen, and to conscientiously perform such duties entirely in the interest of my country and regardless of all personal consequences. I pledge myself to do all in my power to preserve the integrity and purity of the ballot and to promote reverence and respect for law and order. I promise to practice my religion openly and consistently, but without ostentation and to so conduct myself in public affairs and in the exercise of public virtue so as to reflect nothing but credit upon our church, to the end that she may flourish, and our country prosper to the greater honor and glory of God."

GOLDEN VOICE OF CARUSO IS STILLED FOREVER, AFTER GALLANT STRUGGLE

Greatest Tenor of All Times Is Victim of Acute Peritonitis, Following an Operation—Devoted Wife In Attendance at Bedside When Final Summons Came

(By International News Service)

NAPLES, Aug. 2.—The golden voice of Enrico Caruso is stilled forever. The gallant and spectacular fight which the world-famous tenor has waged against disease, ended early this morning when Caruso died here from acute peritonitis. Mrs. Caruso was at the bedside.

Caruso's death was not unexpected. The attending specialists had announced last night that the patient was sinking rapidly and that he would barely survive another 24 hours, even if he held out that long.

At midnight it was announced that Caruso was dying. His strength was ebbing swiftly and already the death coma was hovering over him.

The physicians were in constant attendance and continuously administered restoratives, but the battle was ended.

Caruso became ill last week and was brought from Sorrento to this city, where the facilities for medical treatment were better.

Four specialists were retained. Upon diagnosis it was found that the singer was suffering from an abscess between the liver and the diaphragm. Caruso was very weak and his lungs had suffered from the strain of a previous illness, but an operation was decided upon as the only means of saving his life.

Acute peritonitis followed the operation and Caruso's condition grew steadily worse over Sunday and Monday. He knew that death was near but maintained his old-time cheerfulness.

Mrs. Caruso and the singer's brother were constantly at the bedside, giving such comfort as they could.

By Monday night, Caruso's heart was fluttering so feebly that camphor was administered. It was reported also that oxygen was administered.

Caruso's last illness developed at a time when he was believed to be recovering from his long illness and numerous operations in New York

ANTI-COCKTAIL WAR IS RAGING IN LONDON

LONDON.—An anti-cocktail campaign has been launched by London medical men at the very moment when sweltering heat is driving thousands to their favorite bars for "clober clubs," "bronzes" and all other brands of cocktails guaranteed to brace and cool.

Men's stomachs are being ruined by the cocktail habit, say the medicals, and what is worse the ladies are becoming addicts. The newspapers have taken up the discussion pro and con and have discovered that many a London drinker gets away with six or eight cocktails every evening before dinner. It was not learned how many they get away with after dinner.

CUSHMAN BUNGALOW SOLD FOR $6500 AT AUCTION

The bungalow home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cushman, at 208 Maple avenue, was sold this morning at auction by Lewis S. Hart for $6,500, $2,000 cash and monthly payments of $50. Mr. McKeen who is a general contractor and builder of Glendale with offices in the Rudy building, will live in the house and probably build on the adjoining lot.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH PLANS ABOUT RIPE

The Christian church board of trustees is expected to formally accept the low bid for the construction of a new edifice, next Monday night. The building committee last night, reviewed the bids submitted and will make its report to the board along favorable lines for immediate action. Changes in the plans were made so as to bring the cost close to the original estimate.

The church now in use will be moved to the rear of the lot, and will be used in connection with church work.

MEN, LISTEN TO THIS SUFFRAGETTE!

By H. K. REYNOLDS

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—"There is no reason why a man can't learn to sew, knit, darn and cook, if women have learned to practice law, medicine and other professions hitherto monopolized by men," says Mrs. Edna L. Johnson, prominent suffrage leader and welfare worker, who believes that the husband of the future will be a model seamstress and housekeeper, in addition to holding a regular job.

Mrs. Johnson, who was congressional chairman of the Equal Suffrage association of New Hampshire, and was manager of the first United States employment office opened in New York city during the war, holds that accomplishment is not a matter of sex, nor dependent upon it, but a matter of qualifications, regardless of sex. She pictures the future husband as making the baby's clothes, cooking, washing, ironing and doing the family mending right along with his wife.

"The men surely do not want to let the women get ahead of them in the matter of accomplishments," Mrs. Johnson suggests, "and if they assume the attitude of the average man that they should stick to what has been hitherto considered man's work, while the women go ahead and learn theirs, too, that would surely happen."

"But I am happy to say that this is not happening. The men are learning the domestic arts. Not infrequently do we hear of men designers, cooks, etc., and they are doing this in addition to their regular men's work."

Mrs. Johnson pointed to the fact that one man, Charles F. Champlin, of Chicago, went into a bread-baking contest with 45 women at the Evanston (Ill.) county fair, and carried away the first prize, while nearly every town has its firemen who are accomplished in the arts of knitting or embroidering.

"The division of work into masculine and feminine is a matter of tradition," the suffrage leader continued. "Because men have always been engineers or electricians, and women mothers, stenographers or housekeepers, some still think the division of work should be sustained. Why continue this foolish custom?"

"It is the medical opinion that if women have pronounced positive qualities and men negatives, it not infrequently happens that their talents and qualifications are reversed, despite the traditional division of work."

"Thus we have women lawyers, women politicians, women bankers, and men artists, sculptors, designers and so on, down the list. And sometimes one hears of a woman steevedore, and the like. During the war, many women took up these occupations, as a patriotic service, I realize, of course."

"In some marriages the woman is the man of the house, it has been said. She is the positive and responsible person, and the man is the negative and dependent."

"In a certain court case, in fact, the wife was adjudicated to be the head of the family because she was proven to be the head of the house. And the child, a boy, about whose custody a legal contest arose, was given over to the custody of the mother."

Mrs. Johnson is superintendent of the House of Detention here, and she often wonders, she says, why the boys there can't be taught to sew and do the same things as girls.

"ELOPING" KIDS CAUGHT BY COPS

(By International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—California's most youthful elopers have been caught.

Lawrence Mahoney, 11, and Helen Davis, 13, "eloped" several days ago from their home in Oroville, and were picked up here late last night by police, who discovered they had been living at an apartment house here since last Wednesday. The owner of the apartment house was arrested on a charge of having contributed to the delinquency of minors.

It was the youthful pair's second elopement in two months.

"It's because we love each other so much," they chorused.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Hedging of purchases made in the country constituted the bulk of the sales of wheat at the opening today. Trade was active and mixed. September opened ½ lower to ½ higher and December unchanged.

Rains in the belt brought a rush to sell in corn and September opened 5-8 to 1½ lower with December ¾ off. Under hedging pressure by cash houses oats started 3-8 lower for September and December unchanged to ½ off.

Offerings of provisions were light and the market slightly higher.

WALTER L. BROWN SENT TO RUSSIA

It is well that Mrs. J. D. Brown, of North Maryland avenue, this city, mother of Howard Brown, sailed for England as soon as she did, for had she delayed, she might not have seen her other son, Walter Lyman Brown, whom she went to visit. Some time ago, Walter, who has lived in England for the past fourteen years, was named as European director of American relief work, to succeed Herbert Hoover.

WALTER L. BROWN

According to Washington dispatches, Secretary Hoover has cabled Mr. Brown to go at once to Riga to prepare for the extension of relief work to Russia.

Maxim Gorky, the Russian author, has been made head of the Russian relief committee, and the message to Mr. Brown followed the receipt of a message by Mr. Hoover from Gorky, that all American prisoners would be released, as demanded by Hoover.

MADAME LINNE IS GUEST OF HONOR

Mrs. F. A. Webb and Mrs. Ella Richardson of this city had the pleasure of being guests last Saturday at an informal reception in honor of Madame Linne, who for twenty-five years has been a member of the faculty of the Conservatory of Music in Chicago, and who is spending the summer in Southern California. The group of distinguished musicians invited to meet Madame Linne included Charles Wakefield Cadman, and Gertrude Ross, who contributed some of their own compositions to the brief program. The affair was a special treat to Mrs. Webb, who studied under Madame Linne, and who expects to entertain her some time this week at her home at 303 North Louise street.

The engineer, Robert Block, of Jackson, Mich., pinned beneath his cab, laughed and joked with rescuers as they cut the steel away from him with acetylene torches. It took more than three hours to release him.

MISS PRESTON'S PARTY IS TOURING

Miss Ethel Preston, Miss Nancy St. Clair and Miss Elsie Wilson, who went east to attend the national convention of the Christian Endeavor, are not expected to reach Glendale before the latter part of next week, according to Mrs. Pierson Hanning, sister of Miss Preston. She reports that Miss Wilson is visiting friends near Kansas City. Miss Preston is a guest in the home of her brother at Bucklin, Kan., and Miss St. Clair is with relatives in Pennsylvania. The three travelers are to meet at Dodge City, Kan., and return together.

Their letters indicate that they have found the heat in the east very trying and will be glad to see their home town. They had a wonderful trip, however, and especially enjoyed their stay in Washington, D. C., where they were given permits by Senator Hiram Johnson which gained them admission to the White House, the Senate and the House of Representatives, and the government offices.

Merle Budd, son of Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, of South Central avenue, arrived home yesterday morning, and is now out of the navy, having received an honorable discharge from the U. S. S. New York, upon completion of two years of service. His commanding officer desired him to remain and tried to persuade him to reenlist, but he is tired of the service and anxious to take up civilian life in the business world. Mr. Montgomery is expected home Saturday.

KNOCKS ONE-PIECE BATHING SUIT

By K. M. ELISH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—This business of low-cut bathing suits has Flo Ziegfeld on the run.

The eminent impresario of the famous Follies disapproves most heartily of the latest modes in beach wear, which send a young girl out on the sand with her tender skin practically unprotected against the burning rays of the summer sun. He thinks it's all wrong.

"Ziggy," for once in his career, is in accord with the reformers. They are protesting against the too-ample display of the uncovered female body. So is he—when the display takes place on the beach.

For, be it understood, Mr. Ziegfeld's objections proceed from no moral ground. Pray don't take this to mean that the gentleman in question does not believe in morals. He does, but his ideas on morality are a trifle different from those of Dr. Wilbur Crafts or the Rev. George Bowdley.

"Ziggy's" objections are purely practical. Low-cut bathing suits and bare legs interfere seriously with the color scheme evolved by Joseph Urban for the latest Follies. The girls go down to Long Beach and Southampton over the week-end, acquire a healthy coat of tan and come back with their necks, shoulders and other portions of their anatomy the best in coffee color.

A peaches-and-cream complexion, a dimpled cupid's-bow of a mouth, a lovely head of bobbed hair, a costume carefully designed to give the wearer a chance to show that the excellence of her complexion is not confined to her face alone, but extends to her shoulders, neck and arms. And then, oh, horrors, a heavily-tanned neck and shoulders, with the thinnest of white stripes marking the position of the shoulder straps! Do you wonder that Flo Ziegfeld is willing, for this once, to align himself with the reformers?

"It's tough," moaned "Ziggy," when the subject was broached. "It wouldn't be so bad if only their faces got tanned—grease paint could take care of that. But when they get tanned all over, what, I ask you, is the use of having Joseph Urban to cook up a swell color scheme and spending a mint of money for costumes when the girls are all olive drab and don't harmonize? There should be a law against these low-cut bathing suits."

ENGINEER SHOWED NERVE IN WRECK

(By International News Service)

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 2.—With one of the most disastrous railroad wrecks and collisions in recent years averted narrowly, two men were under arrest today on suspicion of having wrecked the 12:45 westbound Michigan Central all-pullman train at Inkster.

Railroad detectives and police found that the fish plates binding together the tracks, had been removed at the spot where the engine derailed.

Officials of the Michigan Central here stated that they believed a malicious attempt had been made to wreck the train. Spikes had been removed and the rails tampered with, they said.

Three persons, an engineer and fireman, and Andrew E. Baumstark, a passenger of Atlanta, Ga., were injured. One hundred passengers were hurled from their berths when the train left the tracks. The engine toppled over, pinning the engineer and fireman beneath the wreckage.

The engineer, Robert Block, of Jackson, Mich., pinned beneath his cab, laughed and joked with rescuers as they cut the steel away from him with acetylene torches. It took more than three hours to release him.

DAWES AT WORK

General Dawes, acting in the capacity of business manager for Uncle Sam, has cast his frugal eye on the wastefulness of government printing and expresses the hope that the $17,000,000 printing bill may be cut nearly five millions by co-ordination and the limiting of government printing to actual needs.

A cursory investigation reveals that representatives and senators have been in the habit of making a rough draft of their speeches, sending them to the printer and then, after the speeches have been set in type, they go over them more carefully, edit them and put on the final touches before sending them broadcast through the country. This habit, it is estimated, costs the government a cool million. General Dawes proposes to have the congressmen write their speeches carefully before sending them to the printer, thus eliminating the costly work of editing and correcting.

General Dawes will also have a review board, which will consider the work to be done by the government printers, thus making it impossible for bureau and division chiefs in government departments or officials in legislative branches to jam through the printery all sorts of jobs without some necessity for them.

There is not a voter in the country who does not realize that scores of pamphlets that are sent out of Washington by congressmen and bureaus are sheer waste. The expensive habit of sending congressional speeches broadcast is an evil which should never exist. Mr. Dawes, it is hoped, will find the necessary co-operation needed to carry out his plans for reducing the high cost of government. Not only must the other officials at Washington work in harmony with him, but the citizens throughout the United States should give him their frank endorsement.

Speaking of high-class salesmanship, the bald-headed barber who sells hair restorer must be given credit for confidence in his ability—but not the hair grower.

It's hard to believe, as most paragraphers would have one do, that every time General Dawes opens his mouth the air becomes thick with oaths.

A lecturer who has been going about the country delivering an address on "Don't Worry," committed suicide the other day over financial troubles.

There is some consolation in the fact that a "painless" dentist eventually suffers the same fate as other human beings.

Sad Brother (rising)—"Reberend, I can't lib wid mah ole woman any odder way."

A Charitable Interpretation

At a Saturday night church "open house" the minister was discussing the problems of life with a group of young girls. One of them, a dry-goods clerk, complained that her customers seemed purposely to make her work as hard as possible for her.

"Whenever you are tempted to lose your temper, you ought to say over to yourself the first verse of the Thirty-seventh Psalm—'Fret not thyself because of evil doers,'" suggested the minister.

"Do you say Bible verses like that when you are in trouble?" challenged another young woman, a vivacious telephone girl.

"Why, yes, I have a list for various occasions," the minister replied.

"Well, what one would you use, for example, when you had trouble getting your telephone connection?"

The minister thought a moment. "I believe," he said at last, "that a good one would be the verse from Luke: 'She is not dead, but sleepeth.'"

"Snow" for Summer Days

The forerunner of all delicious desserts masquerading under this chilly word was Apple-Snow. By the way, if you do not have ice, it is not advisable to attempt these fragile dishes. Warmth not only reduces the fluffy mass to a "soupy" consistency but renders it unattractive to the palate. This is especially true of apple-snow made with the raw fruit. It must be set at once on the ice and kept there until the very moment of serving.

Select at tart, solid apple, peel and grate, pouring sugar over it as the grating proceeds, to prevent it turning black. Beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth and gradually beat in the grated apple. Do not use too much sugar, half a cup should be sufficient. Make a custard of the remaining yolks of the eggs and serve with the snow. It is easier to make this with cooked apples, though the flavor is not so fresh. Beat the whites of three eggs stiff, add one tablespoon of sugar and one drop of almond extract. In the meantime, have one and one-half cups of thick apple sauce, sweetened and flavor with a drop or two of lemon, cooling in the refrigerator. Beat this gradually into the egg.

ANGEL'S DELIGHT

Almost any fruit, rich in pulp, may be made into a snow, all in practically the same manner as that just described. The two important things are coldness of materials and having the fruit mashed to a pulp in as dry a condition as possible. Berries do not make good snows, being too juicy to hold the beaten egg; although strawberries, if of a meaty variety and well-drained after mashing are usable. A thick jam works up nicely into a snow, but if too much is used it is apt to be cloying. Pineapples, prunes, dried peaches or apricots are all delicious and easily managed for a dessert of this nature.

Banana Snow is a great favorite. Beat the whites of three eggs stiff, add slowly half a cup of granulated sugar and the mashed pulp of two large bananas, well ripened. This may be set on ice and served as it is, or it may be baked in a quick oven until puffy and brown and served cold with whipped cream.

A quickly prepared dessert consists of orange pulp, grated pineapple, banana, cherries or any other fruit on hand, and nuts whipped into the beaten egg-whites and served in orange-cups. Whipped cream may be substituted for the eggs.

If you have not already made the acquaintance of that popular dainty known as "Angel's Delight," you should make haste to try it, for it is an excellent standby for the busy or tired housewife, and is nothing more pretentious than a collection of "goodies," such as marshmallows, nuts, candied cherries or other fruits, coco-nuts cut fine, and stirred into a sweetened whipped cream. If you have to stretch the quantity, add a little cold boiled rice.

There are several delicate puddings having rice as a basis. This one may be frozen or merely chilled before serving. Throw one-half cup of washed rice into a pint of rapidly boiling water and cook for twenty minutes. Drain and put into a double boiler with one cup of milk. When the rice has absorbed all the milk, press it through a sieve and return to the pan with the yolks of three eggs and one cup of sugar. Stir until it begins to thicken, remove from the fire and add one teaspoon of lemon extract and set away to cool. Add two cups of whipped cream. If this is not to be frozen, the whites of the eggs may be substituted for the cream if desired.

WITH GELATIN

The other Snow Pudding made with rice, is as follows: Cook the rice as before, using the same quantity. Drain, but do not mash. When quite cold, add to it one cup of chopped almonds or grated coconut, one cup of chopped fruit free from all juice, one-half cup of powdered sugar. Make a pint of lemon gelatin (one tablespoon powdered gelatin to one pint of boiling water and the juice of one lemon, sweetened to taste) and when it starts to congeal, fold in the other ingredients with a pint of whipped cream. Mold in a shallow dish, cut into small blocks and serve with whipped cream.

A more simple pudding is made by adding the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs to the lemon gelatin. Pour into molds and serve with a custard made from the yolks. Another variation is secured by using one-fourth cup corn-starch, one-third cup sugar, a pinch of salt dissolved in cold water. Add two cups of boiling water, cook five minutes and set aside to cool. Beat the whites of two eggs stiff, add the juice of one lemon combined with the above mixture and beat until light.

PEACH SNOWDRIFT

Butter and eggs is an old family recipe. Beat the yolks of five eggs with a cup of powdered sugar and the juice of two lemons. Place in the double boiler and stir until it reaches the boiling-point. Remove and fold in the beaten egg-whites.

To make Peach Snowdrift, dissolve two tablespoons flour in one cup milk and cook carefully until thick. Cool and beat in the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs and one teaspoon vanilla. Pour over a dish of halved peaches, fresh or canned.

Ivory Jelly has a cool sound. Soak one and one-half tablespoons gelatin in one-half cup cold milk, add two cups scalded milk, one-third cup sugar, a teaspoon vanilla and a pinch of salt. Chill in molds and serve with cream or fruit sauce.

STUDIO NEWS AND GOSSIP

BILL HART AND CENSORSHIP

Bill Hart may return to screen studio work next February. He is four pictures to the good and until they have been released and sent on their travels 'round the globe he'll not worry about getting his meal tickets from distributors and showmen. For Bill is a hard-hearted calculating business man as well as one of the most popular actors in Shadowland. He does not believe in overproduction, which is another term for glutting the market with pictures, no matter how great the demand may be for them. Just now he is concerned over the censorship talk. "Every artist, every writer, every sculptor, every magazine and every newspaper must fight this censorship with all their being," said Bill the other day. "Other wise it will blight every form of creative work, reduce art to mediocrity, victimize and penalize every form of artistic progress." Bill himself has been a victim of censors. His latest picture to be released, "The Whistle," was banned in Pennsylvania by censors because they thought it encouraged class hatred—capital and labor stuff—but he succeeded in convincing them that it is the story of two men's lives, two men who happened to be respectively boss and employee, and the ban was lifted. "This petty State censorship," says Bill, "is a perpetual menace, a perpetual struggle against unintelligent ultimatums that differ in every State and cannot possibly represent a general public opinion at all."

Bills other three pictures awaiting release are titled "Three-Wood Brand," "White Oak" and "Travelin' On."

ACTRESS OF OLD SCHOOL

Georgie Woodthorpe, prominent for more than a quarter of a century on the stage, will play the role of the mother in the "The Song of Life," which will be a John M. Stahl production for Associated First National Release. The character is said to be one of the greatest ever attempted on the screen. Miss Woodthorpe has been in pictures two and one-half years. From childhood until her advent in pictures she devoted herself to the stage. She was leading lady for Edwin Booth in "Hamlet," and for Frank Mayo in "Davy Crockett," and played important roles with Lawrence Barrett in "Rosedale" and Mary Anderson in "Guy Mannering."

BETTY COMPTON PICTURES

Two pictures featuring Betty Compton will be distributed by Goldwyn. They are booked for early showing. One is titled "Even as Eve" and the other is known as "For Those We Love." "Even as Eve" is a romance of the ages and was written by Perley Poore Sheehan. In "For Those We Love" Frank Campeau and Lon Chaney have prominent and congenial roles.

UNIVERSAL'S LATEST STAR

Miss Dupont is the not very attractive screen name of Universal's latest star. Her film career has been of the meteoric order. By location she is a designer of women's clothes. Because of her talent she was engaged by Jack Conway, then a Metro director, to act as his technical assistant when he filmed "Lombardy, Ltd." Her beauty caused him to also give her small part in the picture. So successful was she in the portrayal of her role that Rex Ingram, who was then with the Universal, drafted her for a similar role in "The Day She Paid." Then Eric Von Stroheim began producing "Foolish Wives" for Universal and Miss Dupont played opposite the star. Before the pictures was finished Universal executives decided that Miss Dupont was the screen find of the year and her elevation to stardom followed. Her first picture in that position has the title of "The Rage of Paris."

Lord Alwyn's Bride

By MURIEL BLAIR.

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Everybody on board the ship thought that Lord Alwyn and Signora Pasquale would be engaged before the vessel sighted Sandy Hook. Their acquaintance began at the captain's table on the first day; on the second, since the intermediate passengers were all seafish, Lord Alwyn took the chair next to the opera singer; thereafter they appeared to be inseparable.

They had not much to say on that evening, for the realization of his love for the beautiful singer had come to the Englishman quite suddenly, and when it was too late to withdraw.

"You know I love you?" he began, as they walked slowly under the stars. "Yes, there was never any pretense between us. And our love should naturally end in marriage. Well—I am already married!"

"Let me tell you briefly the story of my life," he said. "When I was ten years younger I quarreled with my father. My elder brother was alive then; I had no hope or thought of succeeding to the title. I was sent to Colorado to a ranch. I was twenty-three, impressionable, hopeless for the future, and very lonely. Old Aaron Hopper, the ranchman who had undertaken my education in return for fifteen hundred dollars, had a daughter, a mere slip of a girl, good, sweet, pretty, and charming but hopelessly illiterate. To this day the sound of a concertina sets my heart beating. When I heard you sing 'My Old Kentucky Home' at the charity meeting—that was the first time we met, do you remember?—the remembrance of those days came back to me as fresh and keen as ever. Well, we were engaged. We were wildly in love, in a boy and girl fashion. And we were to be married."

"The day before our marriage I received a letter from England. My father and brother were dead; both had been killed instantly in a train wreck. I was heir to the title and the family estates and fortune. In my elation I told Eva."

"I shall never forget the scene that occurred. How she refused to marry me at first. Finally I overcame her opposition and we were married the next morning, and Eva cried all through the ceremony."

"That night, when I came home, Aaron stood at the door, waving a letter, frantic with rage and humiliation. Eva had run away. I don't know what became of her. Detectives failed to find her. Old Aaron died cursing her and asking my forgiveness for having ruined my life."

"You did not want a divorce?" asked the woman softly.

"No. How could I? I knew that the brave little spirit that had given itself into my keeping was mine always; that I was morally responsible for her; if ever she appeared I should have taken her home and asked no questions."

He ceased and the woman withdrew her hand and placed it on Lord Alwyn's shoulder.

"Stop, dear!" she said. "Now look at me. I want to ask you a question. Do you love her as much as you love me?"

Lord Alwyn laughed rather bitterly. "I don't love her at all," he said.

"And how much I love you you know. But, my dear, because I do not love her I feel my duty the more strongly. So I am going to try to find her—and so."

"Good-bye," she whispered, and raised her lips to his. Then she was gone and he was alone in the starlight and with his sorrow.

Lord Alwyn spent three days in New York. He called on his detective agency, but they had learned nothing. Then he took the train for Colorado.

Alwyn drew rein at the door, hitched his horse to the old post, and knocked. A woman opened it. It was Eva, dressed as a rancher's daughter, a rake over her shoulder, her hands dusty with hay, but Eva matured—No, it was not Eva. It was Alice Pasquale! Lord Alwyn staggered against the door and his hands, groping feebly, found hers and held them.

"Do you know me now, dearest?" she whispered. "Have you found her again, this Eva, this ignorant girl?" "Alice!" he said, chokingly. "It is you? You are Eva?"

"When I left you that day it was with the resolve to claim you when I had become worthy of your love. I suffered in New York three years until I had acquired an education at night; then a woman engaged me as her companion to go abroad. She believed in my powers as a singer, she had me taught by the best masters; then Count Pasquale adopted me—and you know the rest. And every year I have come back as Alice Pasquale. I bought the ranch again. I come here during haying time—because I knew some day you would come back."

"Never to leave you, dear," he answered. "This is our honeymoon at last."

ding, as they sat before the fire. "Why did you write your name on the paper and put in the bottle of peaches? I could imagine that of you as a young girl, but not now."

"My dear," she answered, smiling, "I bottled those peaches 20 years ago."

"Heaven bless old Holzapfel!" was Rogers' remarkable ejaculation.

Aiding Blinded Soldiers.
More than twenty-three thousand men with damaged sight were discharged from the British army at the end of the war, according to the authorities of St. Dunstan's Hostel for Blinded Soldiers and Sailors. The organization has been working for five years on the problem of rehabilitating these men, and thousands of blinded men have been returned to productive industry.

The men are taught massage, poultry, farming, map making, basket making, boot repairing, joinery and music. Many efficient stenographers, telephone operators and typists have been trained at St. Dunstan's and are now working at regular employment in London offices.

The stenographers have a special machine which records Braille figures on a tape, which the stenographer later reads in transcribing his notes. The organization also extends to the colonies, and St. Dunstan's men are now to be found in every part of the world.

France Doooms Wild Boars.
There are still considerable numbers of wild boars and even wolves in France.

This was revealed in a recent discussion in the chamber of deputies on the estimates for the ministry of agriculture. Two deputies affirmed that wild boars cause much damage, while a third constituted himself their champion, asking if it was not intended to leave a few.

Before the war boar hunting was a favorite, although a somewhat dangerous, form of sport, and at Christmas time it was usual for boar steaks to be served in restaurants. Even last Christmas one or two boars made their way to the kitchens of restaurants and hotels.

Economy.
"Oh, daddy! I've got 70 cents in my bank already for Fourth of July!"

"Yuh have, have you? That's fine! Now when Fourth of July comes you hide your bank and make all the noise you want snapping your fingers!"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

"What's in a Name?"
By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history, meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

VIRGINIA

THE real origin of Virginia is curious and somewhat unexpected. It means "flourishing" and comes from an old Latin gens who called themselves Virginius. Their name was derived in turn from virgo, meaning to flourish, and was connected to the word "ver," translated as spring. Virgilio was the name of the far-famed Orsini family.

The more popular and prevalent belief regarding the origin of Virginia has always been that she came from the Latin virgo, meaning "a virgin." Indeed, the first instance of her use in England was in the time of Queen Elizabeth when Sir Walter Raleigh, named his American colony Virginia in honor of the Virgin Queen.

It was under a similar belief that Bernadin de St. Pierre called the heroine of his tropical Arcadian romance, Virgilio. The widespread popularity of this story in England, France and Germany brought Virginia into enormous vogue throughout Europe. France still adores her Virgilio, and her popularity in England is assured forever out of sentimental memory of the famous queen.

The first American colony established the name in this country. Likewise the first white child born on American soil, and named Virginia Dare did much to spread its vogue. The South has always abounded in Virginias, which, unfortunately has been contracted to unmisgiving "Virgins" and "Jinnys."

The emerald is Virginia's talismanic stone. It promises her wisdom, prophetic vision, long youth, and charm. The Hawthorne bud, England's spring flower, is Virginia's flower. Wednesday is her lucky day and 3 her lucky number.

Uncle Walt's Story

THE DESIRABLE HUSBAND

"JEMIMA BINSWANGER was in luck when she captured Tobias Todmarsh," observed the druggist. "Tobe will make a perfect husband, or I miss my guess. He has no bad habits, and he is a money-maker, without being a tightwad. She will be able to bask in the lap of luxury the rest of her days."

"Of course that ought to make her happy," commented the village patriarch, "but I doubt whether it will. I have heard a lot of people speak of the marriage of these two, and they all take the same view; Tobe is a good citizen and a money-maker, and consequently he ought to be a first-class husband. Some of the citizens who talk this way are venerable married men, and they ought to know better."

"Of course a woman likes to have plenty of money, and unlimited credit at the stores, but the man isn't properly educated who assumes that she will be satisfied with that. I am not the official forecaster, and I haven't my goosebone with me, but I venture to predict that the marriage will be a dismal failure. Tobias, with all his excellent qualities, is the most close-mouthed man in town, and if he ever had an emotion he probably took it for a chill, and began darning himself with quinine. There's as much sentiment in a concrete hitching post as there is in that man."

"DYNAMITE ALLEN" AT PALACE GRAND

"Dynamite Allen," a stirring dramatic tale written by Thomas F. Fallon for the popular William Fox star, George Walsh, is a story which abounds in the unusual in the art of motion picture making. The film will be shown today at the Palace Grand Theatre. The title role is said to fit George Walsh like the proverbial glove—which means strenuous action aplenty.

The picture deals with simple folk in the great mining regions of Pennsylvania. Scenes reflecting the activities of men who spend their days in the bowels of the earth were difficult to obtain. Great care and precaution were necessary to guard against accidents.

Dell Henderson, the director, realizing the importance of extreme care, adopted a unique method of ascertaining the atmospheric conditions at a certain point he wished to use but at which no men were at work at the time.

He had a cage containing several birds, and attached to a rope, lowered into the mine, paying out several hundred feet. This was to find out of any gases existed at the bottom, as it was necessary to do considerable work there. When the bird cage was brought again to the surface all the birds were alive and happy. Then the company were lowered down the shaft.

"The Cook," the comedy which is being shown today to top off "Dynamite Allen," enlisted the action of three stellar comedians—Fatty Arbuckle, Buster Keaton and Al St. John. When a trio of mirth provoking artists of this calibre get together it means something is doing.

"FIGHTING LOVER" FRANK MAYO'S BEST

Four of the screen's prettiest girls support Frank Mayo, the handsome young Universal star, in "The Fighting Lover," his most recent photodrama, which is to be shown at the Glendale Theatre today.

First comes Jacqueline Logan, the spectacular beauty, late of the Ziegfeld Follies; Gertrude Olmsted, the prize beauty of Illinois; Jean Calhoun, the North Carolina charmer, and Ruth Ashby, a California debutante. In addition to the feminine magnets, there are to be seen in the supporting cast such favorites as Jackson Read, Robert Bolter, Fred G. Becker, Joe Singleton, Gordon Sackville, Colin Kenny, Elinor Hancock and many others.

The story starts out with Frank Mayo as a rich young fellow who casually bets $10,000 that he can reach out into the world and produce three girls, with one of whom his friend will fall in love in 30 days. He advertises for three girls and a thousand answer. From among them he picks three, any one of whom would make a young man happy just to look at her.

With that interesting start the story develops a brisk speed that leaves the earth for the climax.

"The Fighting Lover" was written by Ben Ames Williams, author of many popular stories. It was produced at Universal City under the direction of Fred LeRoy Granville, and is regarded by admirers of Frank Mayo as the star's snappiest story.

Sensational scenes where the young chap has the three girls in an isolated castle, his unexpected tumble into love with one of them, a fascinating crime mystery and its strange result, all add to the dramatic force of the production and round it out as one of the screen's most entertaining offerings.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and lazy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.
